ANTOLÍ / TODOROVSKI

With their second album, accordionist Miloš Todorovski and clarinetist Oscar Antolí continue a shared journey of musical discovery. Following the attention sparked by their debut, the duo broadens its palette with even greater openness and detail; revisiting familiar traditions, reshaping them, and letting them appear in a new light. What remains constant is their strong musical dialogue: a sound built on intimacy, precision, and the freedom to explore.

The new music traces a wide arc of influences: from the archaic melodic worlds of Epirus and the driving rhythms of the Balkans, to the resonant dances of the Iberian Peninsula, and onward to Argentinian tangos reimagined through their own lens. Every track is an original composition—rooted in these sources yet transformed by fresh rhythmic ideas, new harmonic colours, and improvisation. Latin American nuances meet jazz harmony and spontaneous interplay, creating a borderless sound that is sometimes melancholic, sometimes bursting with energy, always unmistakably theirs.
